WELCOME BACK!

Happy February to you all! We have been very fortunate to start the year off with some exciting projects with our clients. Whilst a lot of industries have had a tough start to the year, Construction seems to be bucking the trend, through this new climate we find ourselves in. Our surveyors have recently been on the runway, no not the catwalk and sadly not to go anywhere sunny but the foundation survey for a condition report. Normally a survey like this would have been done on nights but not at the moment.

We have adapted our working practices to ensure both the safety of our clients and team to minimise our time on site, undertaking both residential and commercial projects throughout the UK.

A couple of weeks ago the snow hit the Midlands quite significantly, our surveyors were still able to carry out the site works successfully, and built a rather large snowman on their weekend off as shown above!

WE ARE RECRUITING

We are looking for new recruits! If you know someone who is interested in starting in the industry and is keen to start a new opportunity with us, please email us to discuss their future!
